A QUESTION OF MANURES.

Phosphates, Rather Than Nitrogen, Our Dominant Wheat Fertilizer.

A critic of Sir William Crookes' recent address, writing to The Country Gentleman, raises an interesting point and one which seems not to have received much if any attention from others who have differed from Sir William's views. This writer quotes what he pronounces to be, for American wheat growers, probably the most misleading statement of the address and comments upon it as follows:

"It is now recognized that all plants require what is called a dominant manure. Some need nitrogen, some potash, others phosphoric acid. Wheat preeminently demands nitrogen fixed in the form of ammonia or nitric acid." This is exactly the opposite of American experience, and I doubt if a director of a single experiment station in the United States would confirm the statement that wheat pre-eminently demands nitrogen. The action of nitrogen is primarily that of a stimulant to vegetative growth, and its effect is at once visible in the dark green foliage and rank growth which is made at the expense of the grain. It is a characteristic of wheat grown on land very rich in nitrogen to make a rank growth and then "lodge" before ripe, and the heads are poorly filled, and yet Sir William Crookes tells us that the average yield of the world can be brought up to 30 bushels per acre through the increased use of nitrates. At the Cornell experiment station wheat grown on plants that had been fertilized with nitrogen to the extent recommended by Lawes and Gilbert did not even head out, and the crop was a total failure.

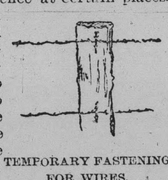
The difference in the effect of nitrates on English and American soils is thought to be largely due to climate. The English climate is moist and damp with much cloudy weather and nitrification is delayed. In our country the bright sunshiny weather and fairly dry condition seem to hasten nitrification. It has been demonstrated time and again that an excess of nitrogen in the land for wheat is soon reached, and for us the phosphates seem to be much nearer a dominant manure for the wheat crop. This is plainly shown by the numerous "wheat special" brands of fertilizers that are found upon the market whose chief value is in the phosphoric acid they contain.

Sir William further says that "all other necessary constituents exist in the soil, but nitrogen is mainly of atmospheric origin." Professor Roberts in his book, "The Fertility of the Land," gives the average analyses of 49 soils from different portions of the United States, and calculates the amount of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash in the first eight inches of surface soil: Nitrogen, 3,053 pounds; phosphoric acid, 4,319 pounds; potash, 16,317 pounds.

This does not show the nitrogen to be very much below the phosphoric acid. Besides this, nitrogen often seems more available for plants than the phosphoric acid or potash and an addition of these elements will often give greater yields than an addition of nitrogen. For American soils at least it is fully as important to add phosphoric acid as nitrogen for the wheat crops.

A Gateway In Wire Fencing.

Sometimes it is necessary to drive through a wire fence at certain places. The plan of an Iowa Homestead writer for providing a temporary gate is to drive staples into the post where the wire is, one above and one below the wire, close enough together so the wire will pass through between them and at a right angle from the manner they are driven when across the wire.



TEMPORARY FASTENING FOR WIRES.

Pass the wire between the two staples and pass a nail through the staples over the wire, as will be seen by the illustration. When it is necessary to pass through, all that will be necessary to do will be to remove the nails and lay the wires down. They are easily replaced also, when through with them.

The Drill For Spring Grain.

A drill cannot be run among cornstalks for putting in spring grain. A drill is so constructed that it will not do the best work unless the ground is free from trash of all kinds, says the Iowa Homestead. We have tried the drill for putting in oats in the spring of the year, but it was when the crop was universally good, and we could not note the advantage. The ground has to be plowed, harrowed and put in good tilth before drilling. There are seeders with a spring tooth attachment that will put in oats fairly well only. As a rule, oats should be in the ground before it is sufficiently dry to make preparations for the drill, and any implement like the disk that will thoroughly stir the surface soil will be good for putting in the oats crop. There may be one advantage in employing the drill in putting in oats. It is where clover is to be sown in the field. Then the ground should be well plowed, reduced and the oats drilled in and the clover seed at the same operation. Drill 2½ bushels of oats per acre. This gives the very best kind of seed bed for clover seed.

Fertilizer For Fruit.

Farmers often ask how much fertilizer they ought to use on fruit. The question is hard to answer, but The Rural New Yorker says it must be remembered in using potash and phosphoric acid alone that neither of these substances is likely to be lost in large quantities. If one has the capital to spare, these minerals are nearly as safe in the soil as out of it. With nitrogen the case is different, as a portion of this is liable to be lost, and therefore large applications of nitrogen at any single time are not advised.

IN THE TWILIGHT OF LOVE.

If years ago you told me, dear,
That on a day our dreams would fade
To these half hearted fancies drear,
I should have grieved and felt dismayed.

But yet so softly has the rain
Of dead years' ashes settled on
Each glowing passion that the pain
Was smothered ere all light had gone.

Ah, be it thus with love's decease!
Its day is done; its shrine too high
To brave time's destined tragedies.
Let us steal down ere night comes by.
—Thomas Walsh in Bookman.

EYES LIKE TELESCOPES.

The South African Bushmen Are Gifted With Marvelous Sight.

It has often been remarked that civilized people tend to become short sighted. This is because in towns and cities their vision is mostly confined to short distances. Savage races, on the other hand, are generally gifted with remarkably keen sight, and few tribes are more noteworthy in this respect than the African bushmen, whose eyes are veritable telescopes. This power is no doubt a wise provision of nature, for the bushmen are a small race, and if they were not able to see danger a long way off they would soon be exterminated by their various enemies, whether savages of other tribes or wild beasts.

A traveler in South Africa relates that while walking one day in company with a friendly bushman the savage suddenly stopped, and gazing across the plain cried out that there was a lion ahead. The traveler gazed long and earnestly in the direction indicated by the bushman, but could see nothing. "Nonsense," he said, "there's nothing there." And he went forward again, with the bushman following at his heels, trembling and unwilling and still asserting that he could see a lion.

Presently the native came to a dead stop and refused to budge another inch, for this time, he declared, he could see a lioness with a number of cubs, a fact which made the animal more dangerous than ever. But the European, who could see no lioness, much less its cubs, pushed ahead, declaring the bushman was dreaming. After walking a quarter of a mile, however, he could dimly make out an object moving across the horizon. Still doubting that it could be the object which the bushman said he had seen, he continued to advance, and at last was able to distinguish a lioness, with her cubs around her, walking leisurely toward the woods.—Chums.

In the Hands of an Enemy.

"Saw a strange thing in Toledo the other day," said a citizen who was being shaved in a Griswold street barber shop. "I was walking from the hotel to the office of a lumber firm and met a man one side of whose face was black as your hat."

Every razor along the line was suspended in the air and the white of every eye became more prominent.

"Wouldn't dat kill you?" gasped the artist in charge of the narrator. "Dat takes de rag su'. An de odder side wa' white?"

"No; that was black too."

There was no work done for some time, as all but the man who had done the questioning were shouting their hilarity. He looked so fierce and made such unprofessional slashes with his razor that the citizen decided to let his mustache grow, didn't want his hair combed and left a half a dollar without mentioning change. — Detroit Free Press.

Gussie's Big Brothers.

"Yes," said the principal of the young ladies' seminary to the proud parent, "you ought to be very happy, my dear sir, to be the father of so large a family, all the members of which appear to be so devoted to one another."

"Devoted! Large family!" gasped the old gentleman in amazement. "What on earth do you mean, ma'am?"

"Why, yes, indeed," said the principal, beaming through her glasses. "No fewer than 11 of Gussie's brothers have been here this term to take her out, and she tells me she expects the tall one with the blue eyes again tomorrow."—London Tit-Bits.

A Remembrance.

"Have you anything besides this photograph by which I can identify him?" asked the detective.

"Yes, I have," replied the hard featured matron, whose husband had deserted her. And, going to her bureau drawer, she took out a bunch of ginger colored hair, tied with a ribbon. "Him and me had some words one day," she said, "and I pulled all this out of his head."—Chicago Tribune.

Birds of Significance.

"Peace is represented by a dove, isn't it?" asked the man who was looking over some allegorical pictures.

"Well," answered the official who had been to a diplomatic banquet, "doves used to figure in that connection. But quail on toast appears to be more popular now."—Washington Star.

Why He Stays.

"No, sir," said the red faced alderman with great emphasis, "I'm in the franchise fight to stay."

"I suppose, then," said the little man with wide ears, "that they don't give you your wad until the whole thing's ended." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Not Entitled to It.

"He wants a divorce," said the lawyer, "because he says his wife refuses to cook for him."

"He's not entitled to it," replied the dyspeptic partner. "No man is entitled to a divorce unless his wife insists upon cooking when she can't." — Chicago Post.

AN ARTFUL GAME.

A Clever Swindle Which Was Successfully Worked In Paris.

Swindling is as monotonous as ethics or mathematics, and the various ways and means resorted to in the last decade of the nineteenth century for obtaining possession of other people's money were matters of common knowledge in the Egypt of Rameses the Great. But the Parisian police now affirm that a new departure has been made on the banks of the Seine. And this is how it was worked:

An office was hired in a good business street by the inventor of the trick, who assumed the title of somebody and company, chemical agents. Being convinced advocates of women's rights, they employed some members of the fair sex, who dressed in the height of fashion, used the most fashionable perfumes and then visited singly the best apothecaries' shop. One of these fair, false emissaries would stop her cab at the chemists, come in and, taking out her purse, ask for another bottle of Dr. Beaumont's elixir. "Dr. Beaumont's what?" said the young man behind the counter. "The elixir. Don't you know?" "No; I am afraid I never heard of it." "Oh, how tiresome, and my poor rheumatic husband will be so disappointed! Are you sure it was not here that our servant bought it before?" "No, madame; it was not here. Where is it sold wholesale?" "It is sold wholesale, I think"— And here the lady showed the ticket on the bottle. "It costs 8 francs."

That same day the chemist bought the elixir wholesale, laying in a fair stock of it, and meanwhile many of the confreres were doing likewise. But, as nobody called any more on the obliging chemists to buy the elixir, one of the curious confraternity analyzed this specific which was supposed to relieve rheumatics. He found that it was at least perfectly harmless, consisting of water colored by coffee grounds. The police were then let loose upon the ladies and the chemical agents, but they had all moved on, leaving no address. They are said to have netted about 10,000 francs by the trick.—London Telegraph.

THE BEDOUIN.

How This True Child of the Desert Goes Through Life.

How dreamily that Bedouin life, with its uneventfulness and its fatalism, fitted the time and the place! Here was a poor Arab who did not know how old he was, but he could look farther into heaven than I could. His mother had borne him while the caravan was on its way to Mecca. He had worked as a laborer on the Suez canal, and he had been a dog knacker in Constantinople before that. He had gone hungry in the wadies of Idumæa, and had run as a cameleer barefoot in the burning sands of Arabia Petræa. He had vegetated into manhood on the lower stratum of this strange oriental existence, content to believe that life was an unavoidable curse, with a drowsy intimation of eternity in it, always associated with the tinkling of bells, the rattle of castanets and the sweet smell of Beirut tobacco.

But he could see some things that were beyond my vision, and I wondered if this true child of the desert, born under indigo skies, of a race that had been guided since the days of Moses and Menephtah by the pillars of fire by night, had not preserved some powers of vision that were common to the primeval man. He never lost the true oriental disdain for enterprise and contemporaneous disturbance, and he made an engineer feel that his work, seen in the light of the unperturbed stars, was, after all, an impertinence to a true pariah.—"Ghosts In Jerusalem," by A. C. Wheeler, in Harper's Magazine.

Fooled by a Gas Machine.

A Brooklyn woman, whose gas bills were almost beyond computation and certainly beyond her purse, had one of the quarter in the slot machines put in her flat and anticipated great pleasure in keeping tab on her gas expenditure. These machines, by the way, are fed a quarter, and when the quarter's worth of gas is burned they shut off automatically.

Toward evening of the day in which the machine was installed she wended her way to the slot and deposited her money, but when an attempt was made to light the gas the machine would not register, and the evening light was shed out of lamps and candles. A wrathy note brought the company inspector to the scene the next morning, and he thoroughly vindicated the reputation of the contrivance when he unlocked it and drew from the inside three nickels and a dime.—New York Mail and Express.

The Wrong House.

A weather beaten member of the tired fraternity, who had lost a leg and had it replaced by a wooden substitute, stumped his way up the main street of a Lanarkshire village the other day and paused at the door of the first likely looking dwelling. Knocking at the door, which was opened by a brisk, businesslike housewife, the man began his stereotyped whine:

"If ye please, mum, I lost my leg"—

And before he could unfold another word of his tale the sharp retort came:

"Aweel, ye didna lose it here!"

And bang went the door in his face.—Liverpool Mercury.

Value of a Comma.

A Prussian school inspector appeared at the office of the burgomaster of a little town to ask him to accompany him on a tour of inspection through the schools.

The burgomaster was out of sorts, and was heard to mutter to himself:

"What is this donkey here again for?"

The inspector said nothing, but waited his time, and with the unwilling burgomaster set out on his tour.

At the first school he announced his wish to see how well punctuation was taught.

"Oh, never mind that," grumbled the burgomaster. "We don't care for commas and such trifles."

But the inspector sent a boy to the blackboard and ordered him to write:

"The burgomaster of R. says, the inspector is a donkey."

—Then he ordered him to transpose the comma, placing it after R., and to insert another one after inspector, and the boy wrote:

"The burgomaster of R., says the inspector, is a donkey."

It is probable that the refractory official gained a new idea of the value of "commas and such trifles."—London Tit-Bits.

Men's Dress In London.

In London the female make up has no significance whatever. All kinds of men ranking anywhere above "lower class," however, have their frock coats and tall hats. A tailor made frock coat is not a luxury in London.

Take it in the United States, and a man wishes to attire himself in the extreme of what the British call "afternoon wear," must be willing to spend money. Compare the prices of a Sunday outfit:

	England.	U. S.
Frock coat and waistcoat.	$15 00	$50 00
Trousers	4 00	10 00
Silk hat	4 00	6 00
Gloves	1 00	1 75
Stick	50	1 00
Totals	$24 50	$68 75

You can buy a bunch of violets on a London street corner for 4 cents. It costs sixpence to have a silk hat ironed. When it comes to the mere making of a personal front on a small income, no other city can offer such advantages as London.—Chicago Record.

The "Terrier."

A document known by the name of a "terrier" is supposed to be kept at every old parish church setting forth the sources of the income of the benefice—especially glebe lands; hence the derivation from the Latin "terra." Ignorance of this purely technical term led a clergyman into a curious mistake. He was a sporting parson and had just been appointed to his first living. During the early days of his incumbency he received a form from the bishop which he was required to fill up. Among the questions asked was, "Do you keep a terrier?"

"No," wrote the cleric in reply, "but I have two well bred pointers, and your lordship is welcome to one if you care to have it."—St. James Gazette.

Farmer Sinclair.

John Sutherland Sinclair is a farmer in North Dakota. His farm is called Berriedale farm. In the book of the peerage Mr. Sinclair is put down as Earl of Caithness, Lord Berriedale and a baronet of Nova Scotia. All the castles and vast estates which his ancestors owned have shrunk to the North Dakota farm. The earldom of Caithness once embraced all the northern part of Scotland, from sea to sea, and the Sinclairs were earls of Orkney too.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

He Was Explicit.

An ex-soldier who had lost a leg in the war and was tired waiting for his pension wrote to headquarters at Washington:

"Ef you won't send me my pension, won't you please send me a wooden leg, so's I kin git about? The leg I lost wuz a bowleg on the left side an had three corns on the three little toes. So, now, you can't go wrong in makin a new one."—Atlanta Constitution.

When death has laid its cold and relentless hand upon a kind and loving husband, the wife cannot be blamed for asking herself if all her years of devotion and work and helpfulness were worth the while, when it comes so soon to this tragic end.

If men would only take the most common sense precautions against the encroachments of ill-health, there would be fewer houses of mourning, and fewer women left alone almost helpless before the battle of life is half over. A man's liver and stomach are twin machines that work together, either to make or unmake. If they work wrong, they deplete and poison his blood. Impure and impoverished blood mean sickness and death. If they work right, they purify and enrich the blood. A man whose blood is rich and pure, and whose liver is active cannot well be unhealthy. Headaches, biliousness, indigestion and costiveness, which men generally disregard, are Nature's warnings that the twin mechanism, stomach and liver, is working against, instead of for him. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine to use under these circumstances. It creates appetite, corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and fills the arteries with rich, red, healthy blood. As an invigorating, restorative tonic, it is far superior to all the malt extracts. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It does not build sickly, flabby fat as cod liver oil does, but the firm, muscular tissues of health.

"For the last nine years," writes William Miller, Esq., of 651 Mulberry Street, Reading, Pa., "I have been very poor in health. I suffered with a running sore leg. I tried many kinds of different medicines, and doctors without relief. Then I used three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and can say that I am entirely cured. I can now do as good a day's work as the next man."

To Perpetuate California History.

Benjamin Weed, principal of the Sonoma High School and a delegate from Sonoma Parlor to the Grand Parlor of Native Sons, which convenes in Santa Cruz on the 24th inst., will bring up a very important matter before that body. It is no less than establishing and endowing by the Native Sons of a chair of California History for the State University at Berkeley. This project originated in the fertile brain of Mr. Weed. The idea is to raise $100,000 by assessment and subscription, which it is thought will be sufficient to carry out the scheme successfully. Mr. Weed's ambitious project is heartily endorsed not only by many of the Native Sons Parlors, but also by Professor Moses, Chief of the Department of History of the University of California.

BROTHER MENIHAN of the Healdsburg Enterprise takes umbrage at the INDEX-TRIBUNE because in its efforts to secure the Odd Fellows Home for Sonoma Valley it has set forth the advantages and attractions of the section it represents. The INDEX-TRIBUNE has done this without detracting in the least from Healdsburg or any other part of our favored county. We do now claim, however, that this valley, when it comes to soil and climate cannot be beat. Has our Healdsburg contemporary forgotten the fact that Sonoma Valley won first prize of $1000 at the Mechanics' Fair in 1887 for the best and best display of agricultural products in competition with because county in the State, Sonoma so slow included?

Grumbling as to location, it is a well-known fact among the Odd Fellows that one of the reasons for the contemplated removal of their Home from Thermalito is to secure a site accessible to the metropolis. This being so, Sonoma enjoys an advantage over Healdsburg in that respect that would prove a saving to the Odd Fellows of many thousands of dollars annually in transportation charges alone. That is why we assert that Healdsburg is "not in it" with Sonoma. You can toot up your giant oaks, crystal springs, your heliotropes and your violets, Brother Menihan, but this is a cold business proposition with the Odd Fellows, who are looking not only for a healthful and beautiful location, but an accessible and money-saving one as well.

THERE is a law on the statute books of California that makes it compulsory on the part of physicians, clergymen and undertakers to file with the County Recorder every three months a certified copy of the births, deaths and marriages at which they have officiated. This law has been overlooked to so great an extent in this county that steps are about to be taken by County Recorder Wright to compel its obedience.

HEALDSBURG has sold her $80,000 bonds to Shepard & Co. of New York. They brought a premium of $2650. The bonds are payable in forty years by installments of $2000 each. The enterprising people of our sister town are to be congratulated on their victory over the silurian element of that town. We have a few of 'em here, and know how it is ourself.

THE INDEX-TRIBUNE wishes to be placed on record as endorsing the action of the Supervisors in appropriating $200 for preparing and printing a phamplet descriptive of the resources of our much favored county.

HOLY smoke—Brother Keene of the Sotoyome Sun says of the old maids of Healdsburg: "They look like the rose in full blossom. They resemble the pink in full bloom."

Danger Signals!

Do you take cold with every change in the weather? Does your throat feel raw? And do sharp pains dart through your chest?

Don't you know these are danger signals which point to pneumonia, bronchitis, or consumption itself?

If you are ailing and have lost flesh lately, they are certainly danger signals. The question for you to decide is, "Have I the vitality to throw off these diseases?"

Don't wait to try SCOTT'S EMULSION "as a last resort." There is no remedy equal to it for fortifying the system. Prevention is easy.

Scott's Emulsion

prevents consumption and hosts of other diseases which attack the weak and those with poor blood.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is the one standard remedy for inflamed throats and lungs, for colds, bronchitis and consumption. It is a food medicine of remarkable power. A food, because it nourishes the body; and a medicine, because it corrects diseased conditions.

Some time during Saturday night burglars entered the basement of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Strong in Bennett Valley and helped themselves very liberally to the contents thereof. There is no clue to identity of the guilty parties.

EXPLAINS HIS VOTE.

Assemblyman LeBaron Tells Why he Supported Grant.

A few days ago a Sebastopol Times representative had an interview with Assemblyman H. M. LeBaron of Valley Ford. During the conversation Mr. LeBaron freely expressed his opinion on legislative matters, and when asked why he voted for U. S. Grant for United States Senator, he gave what seems to be a very good reason for so doing. "Shortly after my election to the Assembly," said Mr. LeBaron, "I made a canvass of this district for the purpose of ascertaining what person the majority of my constituents wanted for United States Senator. I traveled from Healdsburg to Petaluma and talked with almost every Republican with whom I came in contact. I learned that a great many were in favor of Grant, a few leaned towards Barnes, but almost all were bitterly opposed to Burns.

"Having thus gained an insight into the wishes of the people who elected me, I went to Sacramento with my mind fully made up to support U. S. Grant. Personally, I was in favor of Scott, but as my constituents desired to have Grant elected, I considered it my duty to carry out their wishes regardless of my own private opinion.

"When the session of the Legislature was nearing a close a friend telephoned me that a petition was being circulated in the 16th Assembly district, the object of which was to secure a sufficient number of signatures to induce me to desert Grant for Burns. This news came as a little surprise to me, but I never thought of changing my vote. When the petition arrived I read it carefully and discovered that it contained the names of about as many Democrats as Republicans. Of course I thought it strange that people of a political hue so very different from my own should try to map out a course for me to follow, and I continued to vote for Grant until the close of the session."

An important sale among the wine circles was made last week when the Fulton Wine company disposed of their large winery at Fulton to the Italian-Swiss colony, says the Santa Rosa Press Democrat. A. Debay was a large stockholder in the company, and had charge of the winery for the past two years. The winery has a capacity of 300,000 gallons.

DEATH OF A PIONEER WOMAN.

Mrs. Ellen Fouts Succumbs to Heart Failure.

Mrs. Ellen Fouts died quite unexpectedly of heart failure at her home in this place last Sunday morning after an illness of only three days. Mrs. Fouts was a pioneer woman of this city, having lived here continuously for nearly forty years. She leaves six children to mourn her loss, the youngest, Maggie, being sixteen years of age. The other children are George, Frederick, Frank, Louis and William Fouts, all of whom were present at the funeral except Frank, who was in Melitta, and did not hear of his mother's death until the day after the funeral. Mrs. Fouts was a native of Ireland and aged fifty years. The funeral took place Tuesday morning, the remains being interred in Mountain Cemetery.

RUNAWAY AND SMASH-UP.

L. M. Johannsen Slightly Injured and His Buggy Wrecked.

L. M. Johanssen, an old and highly respected citizen of this valley, and who resides on the Napa road, met with an accident yesterday morning. Mr. Johannsen had stopped at Mrs. Sherman's place on First-street West, and left his horse tied to a hitching post in front of the gate. On returning he got into his buggy and started to drive around the corner down Spain street. When near Mrs. McHarvey's place his horse became suddenly frightened and ranaway. The buggy was overturned and badly wrecked. Mr. Johannsen was thrown out and received several slight bruises. The horse continued on his mad career down the street and was finally captured at Weyl's corner.

The Deed of a Vicious Boy.

On Friday night of last week, while the Donahue north-bound passenger train was approaching Vineburg, a large rock came crashing through one of the windows of the coach and out through another window on the opposite side of the car. The noise of the breaking glass startled the passengers and particularly those who sat near the broken windows. The missile narrowly missed the head of a lady passenger. Officer Ohm, upon learning of the circumstance, commenced an investigation of the matter with the result that he ferreted out the culprit in the shape of a vicious boy residing on a farm near Vineburg. The youngster's motive was one of pure viciousness. Owing to the youth of the lad he was let go with an admonition that a second offense would prove a serious matter for him.

The Acquittal of Molini.

The acquittal of Joe Molini, who stabbed Gabriel Sears, a fellow aborigine, near this place a few weeks ago, was partially brought about by the bad reputation of his accuser. Molini was tried in Judge Burnett's department of the Superior Court on Thursday of last week. During the course of the trial the defense introduced the judgment roll in two cases wherein the people were plaintiffs and Gabriel Sears the defendant. It was shown that Sears had twice been convicted on the charge of assault with a deadly weapon in this county, once in the early seventies and once in 1884, and that he had served three yerrs in San Quentin. The following were the jurors who tried the case: Thomas Bonner, Sam I. Allen, D. W. Cozard, J. Arnold, A. H. Ingham, C. D. Near, J. H. Brackett, J. O. Burkhalter, G. A. Hocker, J. R. Mailer, Jas. Viers and W. H. Morris.

Mowers, Binders and Rakes.

The hay crop bids fair to be an unprecedented one in this valley this season and there will no doubt be a great demand for harvest machinery. These great labor-saving machines can be furnished to our farmers by Mr. Fochetti at city prices. Before purchasing your machinery for the coming harvest do not fail to give him a call. He also keeps on hand extras for every mower in the market. See adv.

SPECIAL MEETING OF CITY TRUSTEES

Bids for Painting the Town Pavilion Laid Over.

Well-Owners and their Water Project—Other Matters.

The Board of City Trustees held a special meeting Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Trustees Duhring, Seipp, Harris and Hartin were present, and Trustee Davis absent.

The meeting was held pursuant to notice thereof given at the last regular meeting, and for the following purposes, to-wit:

First—The consideration of bids for painting the pavilion, the roof thereof, and repairing roof.

Second—The consideration of the application of the Sonoma City Water Company for a franchise, and any additional matters in relation thereto that the company may offer.

Two bids were presented for painting the pavilion as follows: Wilson Bros., $72.93; V. Bulotti, $75.00.

Two bids were also presented for painting the pavilion roof, as follows: Wilson Bros., $91.49; V. Bulotti, $95.50. No bids were presented for repairing roof.

On motion of Trustee Hartin, seconded by Trustee Harris, the consideration of the above bids was laid over till the next regular meeting.

In discussing the bids it was the sense of the Trustees that the tumbled-down condition of the pavilion would hardly justify the expenditure of $200 or $300 for painting and repairing the roof of the same—that it would simply be a waste of the public funds.

The Plaza Committee was instructed to report at the next meeting as to what repairs were necessary in and about the City Pavilion.

The Sonoma City Water Company submitted a reply in writing to the amendments and additions required by the Board of the application of the company for a franchise presented on March 25th, 1899, which was read by the clerk and placed on file.

The Board then adjourned.

Road Improvement.

Road Overseer B. F. Campbell has a force of men and teams at work constructing a summer road on the west side of the main driveway on Broadway between the High School building and the bridge south of Wilson's corner. When the road is graded and sprinkled it will be a great accommodation during the summer months to those who enjoy buggy-riding or wish to take a spin on their wheel. This improvement besides being an accommodation to the general public will add greatly to the appearance of Sonoma's main thoroughfare, as it removes several deep ditches and effaces an unsightly by-road.

Second Trial of Chapman.

The second trial of W. W. Chapman, charged with violation of the election law in Wilson precinct last November, will commence in Judge Burnett's department of the Superior Court on the 18th inst. TRUE LOVE.

It burns within the beggar's breast,
It sways the hearts of Kings;
To all who feel its pangs divine,
What joy and grief it brings.

It lifts us up to realms of bliss,
It sinks us in despair;
We live with smiles upon our lips,
And in our hearts a prayer.

For, ever mingling with our hopes,
Are dread and dubious fears;
We greet our loved ones with delight,
We part from them in tears.

But then what grand and noble deeds,
This heavenly flame inspires;
It purifies our worldly hearts,
With its celestial fires.

E'en when earthly ties are severed,
Our bleeding hearts are brave;
For we feel this heaven sent love,
Will live beyond the grave.

Future of the Bicycle.

It is agreed by all bicycle manufacturers that the 1899 models represent the perfect wheel, and that in future the silent steed will be practically what it is to-day. Improvement seems to be impossible, as the bicycle accomplishes everything that is required of it. Precisely the same thing is true of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It represents the limit of science in overcoming disease, and it is impossible to make a better medicine for the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. A few doses of the bitters will start weak, nervous and bloodless people on the road to strength. A regular course of treatment will bring back the pink to the cheeks and sparkle to the eye. Sleep will come naturally, and it will be refreshing and healthful. Dyspepsia, indigistion and constipation will be completely banished, and the blessings of true health bestowed. Never take a substitute for this perfect remedy.

New Enterprise.

Sonoma now has a delicacy store. Mrs. F. W. Bihler of Napa has opened a delicacy store next door to the Sonoma House. Here can be found all those delicacies for the table so highly prized by the ladies. See adv. on second page.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

H. H. GRANICE, Proprietor.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 1899.

Notice of Business Change.

The old saying that "the unlooked-for always happens" may be true in the present instance. The Sonoma News is no more! Having sold the paper and its good will to Mr. Granice, the business and subscription books pass into his hands. Those who are in arrears for their paper will please pay Mr. Granice and those who have paid in advance will receive the INDEX-TRIBUNE to full extent of their subscriptions.

There are three reasons I might give for making this change. It is well known that I did not buy the News with the intention of running it myself. A person usually sells a commercial commodity when the price asked is accepted. The third reason is the more potent one—our patronizing territory is too limited to properly support two weekly newspapers.

But we do need and must have for the weal of the commonwealth one good, wide-awake paper, which shall be alive to the best interests of our people, and such a paper Mr. Granice will be able to furnish us providing he has the good will and support his paper merits. So we sincerely hope all our subscribers and patrons will lend a hand.

With a thank you to our friends and wishes for the success of the INDEX-TRIBUNE we break our quill.

E. E. THOMPSON.

What Shall We Do.

A serious and dangerous disease prevails in this country, dangerous because so deceptive. It comes on so slowly yet surely that it is often firmly seated before we are aware of it.

The name of this disease which may be divided into three distinct stages is, First, Kidney trouble, indicated by pain in the back, rheumatism, lumbago, frequent desire to urinate, often with a burning sensation, the flow of urine being copious or scant with strong odor.

If allowed to advance, this reaches the Second stage, or Bladder trouble, with heavy pain in the abdomen low down between the navel and the water passage, increasing desire to urinate, with scalding sensation in passing, small quantities being passed with difficulty, sometimes necessary to draw it with instruments. If uric acid or gravel has formed, it will prove dangerous if neglected.

The Third stage is Bright's disease.

There is comfort in knowing that Dr. Kilmer, the great kidney and bladder specialist, has discovered a remedy famous for its marvelous cures of the most distressing cases and know as Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root.

It is sold by all druggists.

As a proof of the wonderful virtues of this great discovery, Swamp-Root, a sample bottle and book of valuable information will be sent absolutely free by mail on application to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, New York. When writing kindly mention that your read this liberal offer in the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

To-Night and To-Morrow Night.

And each day and night during this week you can get at any druggist's Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, acknowledged to be the most successful remedy ever sold for Coughs, Croup, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption. Get a bottle to-day and keep it always in the house, so you can check your cold at once. Price 25c. and 50c. Sample bottle free.

SEEPAGE IRRIGATION.

A System of Impounding and Evenly Distributing Water.

Concerning seepage irrigation, which is practiced to some extent in the arid fields of the west, where water is scarce and valuable, and surface conditions are favorable, Joel Shomaker says in The Orange Judd Farmer: It not only catches and retains the surplus rainfall by evenly distributing on the subsurface strata, to feed the roots of growing crops through capillary action, but serves as a drainage for excessive water when a drain pipe is placed at the lowest point and left open. The ditches may remain permanently when once perfected, and, if the farmer is able financially, he can readily convert the seepage plot into a complete subirrigation system by putting in tiling or filling the ditches with stones, logs, brush or straw, coarse enough to allow the water to cut percolating channels.

A seepage system consists of trenches dug round and across a given tract, at proper distances to allow the water full distributory force. On some land, containing deep vegetable mold, water will seep 1,000 feet from a permanent canal, reservoir or other large body and furnish sufficient moisture for maturing crops, while in other less porous soils the under surface percolation will not exceed 100 feet. The trenches are therefore dug in conformity to the nature of the top soil and depth of subsoil. I have seen main ditches three feet in depth and similar width surrounding five acre tracts, with two laterals of similar dimensions across the center, and again have noticed orchards and vineyards with seepage ditches every 200 feet.

The water is turned into the trenches at the highest point by means of a head gate made of separate boards two to six inches wide. These are inserted in slots made by nailing cleats on either side and are put in as the water from the outside fills up the trenches. When trenches are full, all the gate is up and water shut off from supply canal. The water thus impounded percolates through the soil on a level with the bottom of the trenches or on top the hardpan, or substrata, and forms a perfect reservoir from ditch to ditch, seldom coming to the surface except by showing spots of moisture in some of the lowest places.

New Forage Plants.

These new forage plants (Japanese millets), like the Hungarian, are greedy feeders, and for the best results demand a quick and available fertilizer. The seed should not be sown before June nor later than the middle of July, the quantity being at the rate of from two to three pecks per acre. The millets, when used for hay, should be cut soon after the heads are formed and before the seed has set, otherwise the stem becomes fibrous or woody, says Professor F. William Rane, in describing experiments with forage crops at the New Hampshire station (bulletin 57).

JAPANESE MILLET, CRUS GALLI.

The table shows comparative yields and measurements of seven varieties:

	Measurement. (Feet.)	Average weight per acre.
Panicum milleaceum	4½ to 5	10 tons, 1,654 lb.
Panicum italicum	5	7 tons, 550 lbs.
Panicum crus galli	5 to 6	16 tons, 812 lb.
Golden Wonder	4 to 4½	8 tons, 1,364 lb.
New Siberian	4	5 tons, 493 lb.
Japanese (Frech)	4 to 4½	13 tons, 1,236 lb.
Japanese (Henderson)	4½ to 5	13 tons, 1,164 lb.

The Golden Wonder, besides being cured for hay, is used as a soiling crop.

New Siberian is an exceptionally early variety and could be planted much later than the others.

Crus galli grows more stalwart and erect as well as taller than the others and has been the heaviest yielder each year. Professor Rane believes these new Japanese millets to be a valuable acquisition on account of the brief period necessary to their growth and the fact that they can, to some extent, take the place of either hay or corn in seasons when the latter are failures.

One Thing and Another.

Alfalfa hay from the fourth cutting was found to be fine, green and just the quality for feeding to hogs at the Kansas station. Some farmers claim that they realize from $40 to $50 per acre a year from alfalfa.

It has been officially estimated that of the 600,000,000 acres of public lands yet remaining the water supply is sufficient to reclaim about 70,000,000 acres. Of this the intermountain states have: Colorado, 8,000,000 acres; Utah, 4,000,000 acres; New Mexico, 4,000,000 acres; Idaho 7,000,000 acres; Wyoming, 9,000,000 acres; Montana, 11,000,000 acres.

The Irrigation Age says the splendid snows this winter have made sure the water supply for the leading irrigation districts for 1899, and the farmers may smile.

L. H. Read of Wisconsin tells in The Rural New Yorker that in his opinion the Japan Panicum Crus Galli introduced by the Hatch experiment station of Massachusetts is the most valuable forage plant that has been introduced in the last 25 years.
